About Katherine Emely Gomez

Katherine Emely Gomez is a NYC based artist dedicated in organizing and curating a dynamic environment in which artists can share their ideas and encourage gallery exposure by supporting, promoting quality exhibitions. A notion of artists helping artists based on networking and collaboration. Gomez devotes her energy and resources in displaying a variety of emerging and established artists from an array of works including painting, print making, ceramic, photography, instillation, collage and more.

About The Living Gallery

Nyssa Frank founded the Living Gallery in April of 2012. They offer emerging artists and teachers a platform for dreams to manifest. They seek to create an environment based on collaboration, not competition. The Living Gallery is a space where passion meets action. The Living Gallery will always be alive with new artwork, events, and idea. The New York Times Art & Design Article states "...Now it's rising, and art is helping it, just as it is helping art by giving its makers a place to go. Ideally such synergy would hold; it can't, because it never does. Still it's hard not to feel a tug of hope under those big, open Bushwick skies." – Written By Holland Cotter.
